I would like to contribute to this study as a long term resident of Storm Bay (Clifton Beach)
There are three generations of my family now engaged in the joy of surfing around the shores of the remarkable Storm Bay.
I myself , am President of a grass roots community association convened some three years ago .
Friends of the Bays now has a following of 3500 and growing daily. This is the level of outrage and discontent in the community at the destructive harm the salmon industry is doing to Tasmania's waterways and the Tasmanian brand.
An industry once embraced as new and innovative has now been sold to multinational companies who have an overseas history of destroying local fisheries , pollution and dividing communities.
Now Salmon Tasmania is spending millions on saturation add campaigns to attempt to buy back a social licence (like virginity however , once it's gone it's gone)
Every Tasmanian would like to know the end game for an industry dropping tonnes of antibiotics into our waterways polluting our bays and rivers YET still experiencing mass mortalities.
OUR WATERS ARE NO LONGER FIT FOR ATLANTIC SALMON .
WILL THIS INDUSTRY REMEDIATE OUR COMMONS??
As witnessed in Chile (who also professed to use worlds best practice) every year more and more Florfenicol is used.
Clifton Beach and all of Storm Bay is far to precious to all who use it, both wildlife and and humans.
Clifton Beach will be downwind and current from the new Petuna Seafood leases where hundreds of little nippers and kids learn to surf every summer.
Clifton Beach is the most used and loved beach in Tasmania
A STATE ICON
The value to Tasmanians is far more than a few jobs for salmon workers.
Please halt all future expansion into Storm Bay until this review is completed and a full analysis of the harm from this industry is carried out.
Stave Sanders
President of Friends of the Bays.
